A HARD WINTER COMING - Herace Johnson, of Middle Haddam, Conn., who pre dicted the great blizzard, says we are going to have a hard winter. He bases his prediction on the phenomenally large hay crop and the hard, thick shells of crabs. He finds further verification in the two-story muskrat houses. Then he examines the corn husks and finds a fleecy sort of wool on the inside A friend brought bim a squirrel the other day, and he says the for is triple extra thick and very fine. Coous are fatter than usual, and this is a sign that they are preparing for a long siege. Me Johnson paid a man filty cents to dig out a woodchurk, and more signs were found in the bostom of the barrow. Pompkin rinds are of the thickest this fail. He has not yet had a goose's bone to study, but he is willing to stake his repu-tation as the Wiggins of Connection: that it will endorse all be claims for the winter.

A FAMILY OF GIANTS .- The six Withers brothers, whose remarkable stature has been talked of throughout the country, are holding a reunion in Louisville at present, Each of these men is over six feet six inches in height and they average 191 pounds weight each. They are remarkably attached to each other, and the occasion of the present reuni n was to welcome home one of their number who had been in Texas for ten years The mother of the giants, Mrs. Mary Withers, is eighty-nice years of age. She fives at the family homestead in Meade county.

The Rev Dr. Talmage, on Sunday, preaching before a large audience at the Academy of Music, New York, described his visit to the Jordan and the Dead Bea Incidentally be condemned the profugacy of the great cities and declared that as Pomue i and Herculaneum, Sedom and Gomorcah were destroyed by volcanic action, New York is in the same danger.
